Ethics at SEA-EIMLB asbl

- Compliance with the quality criteria required by the MENJE
- Compliance with the legal criteria in force for all SEA in the GDL
- The SEA-EIMLB fully follows the philosophical bases of the School
- The philosophy is that of socio-construction (construction of knowledge)
- We believe in the principle that each person has the capacity to build himself, the child as well as the child.
- We adhere to the ethics/principle of benevolence (Aristotle)

Ethics at SEA-EIMLB asbl socialization and SEA (EAS)

The principle of benevolence is our most valuable asset.

We do not accept any stigma, be it gender, culture, disability, colour or any difference. We created Acceptance Day for prevention purposes.

The school and the SEA as the cradle of future responsible, truly human and discerning people.

Ethics at SEA-EIMLB asbl

the objectives of the EAS (SEA) in cooperation with the EIMLB

Become familiar with questioning, active listening and rephrasing in order to restart a discussion without interpreting the child's thinking.

Seek ways to facilitate the conditions for progress, learning and success through the practice of attention and a caring relationship with the child.

To facilitate the development of discernment skills and emotional intelligence in children first, and then in adolescents.

Introduce the child to a "citizen's journey", identify the different forms of discussion, settled debates, discussions with a philosophical aim and the ethics of discussion.

To experience the exercise of democracy and become familiar with themes such as believe or knowing.
